gets at least a touch of SPRING FEVER. None of us are in such perfect physical condition that we do not feel SPRING LASSITUDE to some extent, while many of us feel it very severely.

The processes of excretion do not work as vigorously during the winter as they do in the warmer seasons.

Miss Eckert III, Cannot Come. Word was received Friday morning that Miss Daisy A. Eckert, field secretary of the Philathea union, who was to have spoken at the First Baptist church Sunday, is seriously ill at the home office at Syracuse. The strain of her winter's itinerary has overtaxed her strength and by the physician's orders a liengagements for the spring months have been cancelled. That Miss Eckert cannot be here will be a source of disappointment to many who were planning to hear her during her visit to the city.

Consequently the body generates more waste matter than it eliminates. Spring is the time for getting rid of these gradually accumulated collections of impurities. Their presence in the system causes all the many troubles grouped under the title of SPRING UPSETS and will continue to cause trouble until these impurities are removed.

Each and everyone of us would feel better, work better and enjoy ourselves better if we all gave our systems.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL. Delightful Entertainment Provided at Methodist Church by Young People.

A pretty affair took place in the vestry of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Friday evening in the annual merrymaking of the voung people's society—the Epworth league. The programme was in charge of twelve young ladies. Louis M. Carpenter and Howard N. Porter were the masters of ceremonles.

The programme was opened with a piano solo. A Caprice, by Miss Alice L. Woodward, rendered in her usual attractive style. The first half of the exercises was enlivened by a boarding school sketch, A Pan of Fudge. This comedy was given entertainingly by school sketch, A Pan of Fudge. This cemedy was given entertainingly by Anna M. Haglund, Clara Odgers, F. Sybii Morgan, Madeline Boynton, S. Elizabeth Armstrong and Ethel Odgers. The musical numbers, a violin solo, Life Let Us Cherish, by Elizabeth A. Lane, and the soprano solo. April Fooling, by Anna M. Haglund were both enthusiastically received by the large audience.

Annual Meeting Held and Officers Reelected-Paper by Miss Mary Aiken.

The annual meeting of the Home Missionary society of the Broadway church was held in the church par-lors on Friday afternoon. There were thirty ladies in attendance. The meetthirty ladies in attendance. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Edward D. Fuller, with Mrs. S. Howard Mead leading the opening devotional exercises. As this meeting closes the regular work of the year, the annual report was given by Mrs. William C. Osgood, who gave a most interesting resume of the year's work in the society. The present officers were re-elected, these bing: Honorary prsident, Mrs. Lewellyn Pratt; president, Mrs. Edward D. Fuller: vice presidents, Miss Mary L. Huntington, Miss Ella M. Norton and Mrs. Frederick W. Lester; secretary, Mrs. Frederick W. Cary; treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Davis; registrar, Mrs. William C. Osgood; collector, Mrs. William H. Oat.

Mrs. Fuller referred gracefully and affectionately to the three members of the society who have been taken away during the year, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Miss Eliabeth P. Ripley and Mrs. George M. Rathbone closing with Susan Coleridge's poem, Commissioned, which so appropriately seemed to call upon the others to fill the places of these earnest and faithful workers. The paper for the afternoon was one by Miss Mary A. Alken upon the Philippines. This was especially interesting, being a comprehensive study of the islands, their early history, conquest, and present day conditions, given from a broad outlook and in Miss Aiken's charming literary style and was received with much appreciation.
